Conversi Profile

I feel called to the contemplative path because...	I really want to better focus my thoughts and increase my understanding of my faith, and feel that the best way to accomplish this is through learning to contemplate the wonder that is God.
Some of my current spiritual practices are...	frequent mass and eucharist, singing in Christmas and Easter choirs, reading at weekday mass, daily prayer and spiritual reading with my wife, and annual retreat.
A contemplative value I strive to live in my life is...	humility
List any faith communities to which you belong...	Singing with others in choir at Christmas and Easter even though my voice needs help), is very uplifting and joyous to my soul. Serving as the Parish Council Chair, it felt good to help out, but I felt that the role caused me to become more cynical and less tolerant of others. I resigned after three years.
I want to be a member of the Conversi community because...	I have looked into Cistercian spirituality for over a year, and before that, ironically, adopted as my special prayer "Be still and know that I am God" as I dealt with cancer and surgery (pulled through well) I have received and read thoroughly the Rule (from Belmont Abbey) and seek to live its values of obedience and humility and simplify my life. I cannot join Associates in either Iowa or Kentucky because of distance, yet seek to interact and learn.
